September 18, 2016, Concord, North Carolina - The Make-A-Wish Dodge Charger R/T piloted by Don Schumacher Racing (DSR) driver Tommy Johnson Jr. dominated the Funny Car field when it mattered most during qualifying at the NHRA Carolina Nationals and produced a start from the pole for the Avon, Indiana-based competitor. On Sunday, at the first race of six in the 2016 Mello Yello Drag Racing Series Countdown to the Championship, Johnson was again on a sweet ride as the monstrous HEMI® under the hood took him all the way to the final round.

All four of the Team Mopar DSR-housed Funny Cars are running for points in the Countdown to the Championship, and on Sunday at illustrious zMAX Dragway, three of the four advanced to the second round or better with their Dodge Charger entries. Jack Beckman and the Infinite Hero Dodge had trouble maneuvering the tricky, hot racing surface and bowed out in the first round, but Mopar Express Lane Dodge Charger R/T driver Matt Hagan advanced to the second round, and Ron Capps, in his Mopar-powered Charger, thundered ahead to the semifinals to sock away valuable points in the championship chase. Capps will retain the points lead heading into the second race of the Countdown.

The day started on an unexpected note for Johnson, who had a solo run in the first round when Bob Gilbertson was unable to get his Funny Car to fire. Crew chief John Collins was afforded the opportunity to gather valuable data as Johnson attempted to navigate the sticky, steaming racing surface on the hottest day of the weekend. Johnson struck the tires and clocked a 5.330-second pass at 132.70 mph, which meant he was to forfeit lane choice in a second-round meeting with DSR teammate Hagan.

Known for his quick reaction times, Johnson launched ahead with a very efficient .039-second start to his opponent's .071, and the two put on a great show with their Mopar machines as they raced side-by-side towards the finish line. It was Johnson who tripped the timers first, recording a winning 3.970/320.74 to Hagan's 3.992/322.11. The round win sent him ahead to the semifinals for a meeting with Del Worsham, and again it was Johnson who took the lead at the hit of the throttle. A .046 reaction time to a .075 provided momentum and his strong and steady Charger was off on a tear, clocking out of the round with a cool 3.949/321.19 to 3.990/322.27 to send Johnson to his third final of the season.

He was again phenomenal on the starting line with a .032-second reaction time that bested his opponent's .059, but at the top end it was John Force with the win light, 3.946/324.05 to 3.987/315.71.

"Peaking at the right time is what we came in here saying we needed to do, and I think we showed that we're ready to peak," said Johnson, who moved up from No. 7 to No. 4 in the points. "We qualified No. 1 and went to the final, and we lost a close race there. We wanted a little more than that, but I'm very happy with the way the car is running and the way the team is doing. We're going to take this as a positive and not a negative, and we'll go on to St. Louis and continue.

"This gives everybody confidence. You can either come out of this first race of the Countdown with confidence that you've got a shot and that you're one of the cars to beat, or you can come out of here not being one of the cars to beat. This will put a kick in the guys' steps, and everybody is going to work a little harder. We're really close to being one of the dominant cars right now. A little more hard work and focus will get us there."

Hagan and the Mopar Express Lane Dodge Charger will leave the first race of the Countdown to the Championship in the No. 5 position. The two-time Funny Car world champ was level-headed and looking ahead at the conclusion of the event.

"TJ and the Make-A-Wish Dodge Charger guys just did a great job, and at the end of the day, you have to go over there and shake their hands," said Hagan. "They just did a good job, and we don't leave empty-handed. We at least got a few points in qualifying, and we learned and we'll move on to St. Louis. We have five more races to make this thing happen. A lot can happen in just five races, so we'll just keep digging."

In the Top Fuel chase, Leah Pritchett and Tony Schumacher, the two DSR HEMI-powered Top Fuel drivers, leave the first race of the Countdown in the No. 8 and No. 5 positions, respectively. Pritchett won her first-round battle with Richie Crampton before falling to Doug Kalitta in round two, and Schumacher was on the bad end of a big upset in the first round when his dragster fell into tire shake and allowed rookie Cameron Ferre to advance.

Pro Stock points chaser Jeg Coughlin Jr., in the Magneti Marelli Offered by Mopar Dodge Dart, accumulated points on Sunday when he got ahead of fellow Mopar campaigner Allen Johnson in round one.
